

ABSTRACT

Odor emanating from feces deposited by a human making a bowel movement in a toilet is reduced or eliminated by applying a liquid deodorizer to the bowl of the toilet immediately prior to making the bowel movement. The liquid deodorizer is applied as a spherical droplet spray including one or more enzymes.